Use this simple calendar to track how often you experience the following symptoms:

- (A) Abdominal pain
- (B) Bloating
- (D) Difficulty eating/feeling full quickly
- (U) Urinary urgency or frequency

Women who have these symptoms for more than four weeks should see their doctor.

OVA1® is a qualitative serum test that combines the results of five immunoassays into a single numerical result. It is indicated for women who meet the following criteria: over age 18, ovarian adnexal mass present for which surgery is planned, and not yet referred to an oncologist. OVA1® is an aid to further assess the likelihood that malignancy is present when the physician's independent clinical and radiological evaluation does not indicate malignancy. OVA1 is a registered trademark of Vermillion, Inc.

PRECAUTION: OVA1 is not intended as a screening or stand-alone diagnostic assay. Incorrect use of OVA1 carries the risk of unnecessary testing, surgery, and/or delayed diagnosis.
